From the first it transacted a general uniness of deposit and loan, and the curency being metallic, with the exception of the own issue, it soon had coin on deposit belonging to its customers, to redeem its notes, which was sent freely by the Government to Flanders, and expended in the siege of Namur—the army supplies at home being procured with bank notes. The siege was successful; the city capitulated, and the success being largely attributed to the supplies furnished by the bank, it gained great popularity as a patriotic fastitution. But the truth is, the bank furnished no supplies, it loaned the Government absolutely nothing, and the Government loan furnished no capital to the nk. It was a straw corporation. It was ything for the use of the capital, were arged £100,000 per annum, and still consly a direct tax of £1,200,000 would have prevented all this with no greater ex-haustion of money. It was a manufacture of debt for the benefit or those gentlemen a sickly sees fine a point upon it, it was a setnile. of Europe and America have groaned ever since the existence of the Bank of England, and which especially tortures Illinois and Wisconain at this moment.

The Bank of England, then, was the first debt factory. Some writers have fancied the discovery of the same principle in the House of St. George established at Genoa, in 1407, but they draw largely upon imagination to do thia. That bank was founded upon loans to government of actual money, and not fiction; it made loans of absolute value also to merchants and others, and it issued notes in certificates. It was a most complicated machine, but there is not a particle of evidence to show that it ever granted a credit or issued a mote or certificate payable on demand, unless against a reserve of coin, the for Mre; and it is very doubtful whether, amid the various schemes and modifications of paper currency in China, our proposterous principle of debt banking—the Bank of England system—was ever attempted. The obligation is an impossibility in its very value and on its face; it was accepted by England in an extremity, as drowning men catch at straws, and nothing lilustrates the unfathomable depth of human credulity so clearly as the persistent determination to continue it in use amid the wreck of fortunes, broken hearts, insanity, suicide and despair, that mark its will be cambined most carefully, and if it shall we found accessive, occurrency of the Secretary of War. must pass to the promiser, or he undertakes an impossibility. When he finds the dollars withdrawn that measured his commodity at the purchase, without returning an agreement, he will not find the price in it any larger, and if he owes for it it will not pay the debt.

But, unhapplity, the mischief does not often nor generally fall upon the mischief-maker. The debt-factor takes care of that with bond and security. The innocent party is ruined and the rogue escapes. This result obscures the subject almost totally in the public mind. Men make almost superhuman exertions to pay the almost superhuman exertions to pay the hanks, if they ruin everybody else, and hanks, if they ruin everybody else, and finding the banks secure, they who escape the disaster turn upon the victims of their system with the senseless and perfidious accusation of overtrading. The charge is unqualifiedly false. There has never been nearly as much trading as there would have been, safely, and will be at no distant day, we trust, with money banking and a money currency.

An Explanation.

The dispatch to the Chicago Triburs, "by the invisible line," dated Washington, June 30th, 1861, was generally regarded in this latitude as picesantry or pursifuge. If we had supposed that anybody in 'Illinois would have construed it literally we should have appended a foot note! When the State Journal indignantly denies the truth of our dispatch and asserts that "we are at war," there is an army around Washington," we reply that we have reason to suppose the State Journal is

There seems, however, to be something of a change in the programme. The matter is to be left entirely with the Otionels of such regiment, as to when the mustering in shall take place. It was, in the first place, understood that the whole thing would be accomplished on the Fourth; but because of sundry reasons the above indicated change of programme has been ordered. My opinion is that the re-mustering will not not now take place until after he Paymenter has peid us a visit. There seems to be a better feeling to-day than for a long time before, and I gather from conversation with several company officers.

Luow not, that the Lincoles Rifes and the Union Turners are to be shortly ordered back to Camp Defiance. We shall certainly be very glad to see them once more among us. During the week we have had quite a number of celebrities in town. The Roy. Dr. Bellowell or New York. Dr. J. B. Newberry of Cleveland, and W. H. Murray of Chechandi, as a sub committee of "laquiry and advice in Respect of the Sanitary Interests of the United States Forces." The Sanifary Committee, of which they are members, and in furthersace of the objects of which they have visited Camp Defiance, has the approval of the Secretary of War and his official suthorisation. These gentlemen, in company with the Brigade officers, made an official inspection of the company quarters and of the hospitals. Dickinson Saminary at Lake Foresy.—
The second year of Rev. Dr. Dickinson's seminary at Lake Forest, closed on Monday evening with exercises of a highly interesting character, music, compositions, reading, dislogues, &c., made up a fascinating programme, and the young ladies acquitted themselves with much good taste and perfect self possessies, compled with medesty; and all reflecting credit upon their teacher and governess. The Marsellaise was besutifully rendered, in costume, and the fall chorus of the "stars and stripes, the flag of the free," closed the boar's entertainment, which had gradified fond purents, design teachers, and as many more as undying shame on all the porche race in the comid crawd the hall. Lake Ferest is fast gaining an earthable position for fine educational advartages.

A Drexem for the Zouaves.—Quite a clis appointment grew out of the expectation, hased on the rumor that a plocale dinner was to be given to the gallant Zouaves at Camplang, on the 4th. The statement was published too into to allew a general co-operation of citizens, and as far as our own referenced to the matter was concerned, we were so far misled as to believe that all the arrangements were perfected, and mentioned it merely as an Hem of news. As a consequence, "the jable was bure" of the Zonsves that say, and though many individuals were remembered by generous friends in the city, the general plouse proposed was a failure. We are glad to announce that the ladies have splittedly takes it in hand to amend matters, and that they have determined that a pic nic Campland one of his fingers torn off, by the bursting of a pistol.

The largest attendance was attracted by the campa. Thousands went down to Cottage Grove, and were repuid for their visit to CAMPS LONG AND MULLIGAN.

CART'S LONG AND MULLIGAN.

In these how adjacent camps the soldier received their friends from the city by thousands. Everything wore a charming aspect. The palm for best attractions was awarded unanimonaly to the Irish Brigade, who with marrellons tasts and no light tabor had given to their board barracks a lavish decoration beautiful in itself and rarely surpassed even in the ornaments and adornments of a Fair. There were on the fronts of the barracks emblems national and in memory of Old Erin. Pictures were suspended and profusely trimmed with evergreen. In front of the Pictures were suspended and profusely immed with evergreen. In front of the barracks the tidy plats were laid out in minis

THE FOURTH AT EVANSTON. The beautiful steamer Comet, Capt. Bahst, left her dock at 9 o'clock Thursday, with a full lead of human freight for the spleadid grove at Evanston. The steamer, leaded from stem to stern, from hurricane deck to keel ing thousands on thousands in that neighbor hood, until it literally swarmed with the mul-litude. At five, with the assistance of the rall oad and two sten ers, the happy thre or the city, while those who were not to such exhausted to do so re embarked, with much exhausted to do so re embarked, with the addition of several hundred recruits, to "trip the light fantastic toe" to music, in a vening passed off, as it could not but do, very

AT RACINE AND CAMP UTTLEY Here there was an "old fashioned cele tion," procession, prayer, reading of the De claration, orations, dinner &c. The Wiscon sin 4th Regiment is encamped here, and the parade was a marked feature of the celebration. Our reporter was too late to witness the proceedings, except the dinner given in the barracks by the ladies of Racine to the regiment, and a most magnificent affair it was ponded to by the men with such power tha

it reminded one of Scott's descripti "Within that dark and narrow dell." At the close of the banquet each soldier marched out with a bouquet in one hand and lots of "goodies" in the other. Their camp is named "Camp Uttley," for the Adjutant General of the State, and is most beautiful lecated in the grove south of the city and no far from the Episcopal College. A fluor se of men, especially the field and line officers were never gathered together in our sister State. Another Chicago Cavalry Corps. Capt. Christian Thielman's Company of Cavalry, now full and nearly at the maximum number, has been accepted by Gor. Yates, as declared by letters missive dated July 2d. The requisition has already been drawn for their malforms and arms. An opportunity is now offered to some capatallist to furnish them with horses, as was done in the case of Capt. Ba-ker's Chicago Dragoons, and Capt. Scham-leck's Heffman Dragoons. By the regulations of the service, each dragoon is allowed fifty cents a day for the use and risk of his horse, or $180 per year. In the case of the two fo mer companies, the opportunity was eagerly sought of supplying these herees, purchased at sums ranging from $85 to $110, the privates and officers each making over to the capitalist their per diem allowance for the horse for one year, thus leaving and assuring a very hand-some margin of profit. Who will be thus patriotic, and at the same time "put money" in his purse," by furnishing Capt. Thielman's company with a mount? They deserve a good
